1.0 Introduction

This document captures BUSINESS requirements at a high level by identifying ALL the use cases in a project/application.

Write a few paragraphs describing the purpose of the project/application in the Introduction.

2.0 Project/Application Actors

An actor is someone or something (e.g. application system) outside the system or business that interacts with the application. List the actors involved in ANY use case. Actors should be a person, system, or time.

ACTOR NAME	DESCRIPTION

3.0 Use Case List

List ALL use cases identified for the project/application.

4.0 Use Case Diagram(s)

Show diagram(s) that - ALL actors and ALL use cases identified in sections 2 and 3 must be represented somewhere in the diagram(s). IF multiple use case diagrams are created because of groupings of business functionality assign a number and name to each diagram for ease of reference.

5.0 Use Case Summary

For each use case include: Introduction of use case (one paragraph, will also be "introduction" to individual use case specification document), use case diagram number and name reference (if exists), list of main actors and list of secondary actors (these MUST match the lists in the individual use case specification document).

6.0 Use Case Summary Review and Signoff
